The couple were married October 14, 1889, and lived happily, according to the plaintiff, until 1900, when her husband met the co-respondent. The wife says that her husband's love for her steadily waned and that finally in September, 1914, he left her and their two children—Dorothy Dyar, now 19, and Otis P. Dyar, 15. The plaintiff says her husband went to the Bahama Islands with the co-respon-dent and later took a trip with her by sea from New York through the Panama

Robert Morris—"Financier of the Revolution"

T HAS BEEN SAID the three very great men of our War for Independence were Washington, Franklin and Morris. In the history of mankind no man ever had a more arduous commission than did Morris in financing the armies of Washington. The credit of the nation was practically valueless, and time after time it was the personal credit of Morris which brought forth the money. The financial means raised from his own private resources made the victory at Trenton possible. When Washington proposed the capture of Lord Cornwallis and his entire army, it was from Morris, the patriot and private citizen, and not from the treasury of the Confederated States from which the money came. Thus Washington's last great victory was made possible, and the long and bloody struggle for National Independence brought to an end. Morris was the first to suggest our present system of National banks—the best banking system that any nation has ever known. He was the first American to send a ship forth flying the Stars and Stripes. Like Franklin he signed both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. He was very hospitable, and whenever Washington visited Philadelphia he was the guest of Morris. He was ever a moderate user of light wines and barley brews, and opposed Prohibition Laws, which make the many suffer for the faults of the few. For $ years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley-malt and Saazer hop brews which the wisdom of Morris knew make for real temperance, To-day at the home of BUDWEISER, 7500 people are daily required to meet the natural public demand.
